Sewer, Water Bills Prompt Calls

Sewer and water customers have been keeping North CountySanitation and City of Daly City telephones busy recently.

They've been calling about unexpected sewer and water bills.

The sanitation district, which covers Daly City and unincorporated Colma, instituted a new sewer service charge of 53 cents per 100 cubic feet of water consumption.

Formerly, the sewer service charge was $31 per single-family home and $26 for each apartment. The annual fee was billed to sewer service users on tax bills in April and December.

According to district manager David Gehre, a Citizens Advisory Committee recommended last spring that the sewer service charge be changed to reflect "actual water use, rather than an area-wide average."

Gehre said the new arrangement is the "most equitable" charge.

"Where one is living in a house or an apartment in a large or small household, everyone pays at the same rate," he said.

A few weeks ago, the district sent out its first sewer service charge bills, based on Daly City water consumption. The sewer billing will be included in the water bills city customers receive bi-monthly.

Last week, the district began billing California Water Service customers in unincorporated Colma. Although the bill is based on the water service meter readings, it is being sent as a separate bi-monthly bill.

Since Daly City water customers are billed only once every two months, residents may not get their first sewer service charge until late this month.

California Water Service customers can expect to receive their first separate sewer bills by the end of the month, too, Gehre sid.

The district manager said the average bi-monthly charge is between $6 and $9. He said some users will save money and some will spend more, under the new method of figuring.

However, he added that the average user could pay $8 to $10 more this year above last year's average cost of $60 to $65.

Users still will be assessed a tax rate charge, though the district's Board of Directors lowered it from 26 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to 6.6 cents per $100.

The user fees will help pay for the district's new secondary sewage treatment plant, as well as maintain the general plant operations.

Gehre said the district has been averaging 15 to 20 calls per day from concerned customers, but the number is beginning to decline.

However, the calls to Daly City's finance department have been superseded only by "people who've been running in here like mad," according to Doris Rehe.

Mrs. Rehe, administrative assistant in the department, said persons who forgot to sign up for additional water allotments under the city's rationing ordinance are getting rude shocks.

Under the bi-monthly billing cycle, residents began to receive their first bills under the rationing plan at the end of

Council Expects Flack

City Councilmen in Daly City last night were expecting some opposition at its special meeting to discuss acquisition of property for the city's multi-purpose center.

The hearing was scheduled for 8 p.m. in council chambers at the Civic Center.

The city plans to acquire 1.35 acres adjacent to the War Memorial Building on Mission Street on which to construct a complex to house social services, library and recreational facilities.

About $391,000 in Housing and Community Development Act (HCDA) monies has been allocated "for the determination of building uses and space requirements, initial design work, as well as site selection and purchase."

The Daly City Planning Commission's report did not find the proposal inconsistent with the city's general plan.

However, the owners of most of the property in question, Mr. and Mrs. Art Sofos, will speak against the city's intention to acquire the property.

Sofos said the result of the eminent domain proceedings and center development would be "not only to increase the taxes for everyone concerned, but to burden the small businessman with the replacement of his property."

No Hit-and-Run Leads

Daly City police have failed to come up with any leads in the Sept. 30 hit-and-run auto accident which resulted in the death of 6-year-old Lafo Viagalelie of Daly City.

Lt. Tom Culley said several persons have telephoned the Police Department with tips, but "so far they haven't panned out."

Culley said the department is running a check of all 1967 Plymouth "Furys" registered in California. That type automobile is believed to have been the hit-and-run vehicle.

The victim, who lived at 292 MacDonald Ave., died at Kaiser Hospital, South San Francisco, about two hours after the accident.

Police are searching for a man in his early 20s, possibly of Latin, Oriental or Filipino descent. He was wearing a dark-colored sweatshirt or a warmup jacket, witnesses said.

The car is believed to be a 1967 four-door Plymouth with a bad paint job — dark green vinyl on top and light green on the bottom. It bears black and gold California license plates.

Persons with information about the incident are asked to call the Daly City Police Department.

Court Rejects Pact Hearing

By NANCY STANCILL

California's Supreme Court has denied a petition for a hearing on the controversial, proposed seven-year contract between Daly City and the Broadmoor Police Protection District.

Wayne McFadden, attorney for the nine Broadmoor and Daly City residents who sued to stop the signing of the contract, said he received a postcard from the court Saturday.

The post card simply said, "Hearing denied."

San Mateo Deputy Dist. Atty. George Camerlengo, who petitioned the Supreme Court on behalf of the Broadmoor Police Commission, could not be reached Monday for comment because of the Columbus Day holiday.

Earlier, he had said chances for a hearing were slim.

The only way the contract matter could be carried further would be for Camerlengo to petition the court a second time.

Denial of a hearing by the Supreme Court upheld a June ruling by San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Melvin Cohn.

Cohn prohibited signing of the seven-year contract, because, he said, it did not contain a "reasonable" cancellation clause.

The Police Commission, in a 2-1 vote, requested an action by the state District Court of Appeal that would allow the contract to be signed on an emergency basis.

The Court of Appeal, however, rejected the petition for a writ and the commission later voted to take the matter to the state Supreme Court.

The contract would have provided for Daly City to handle police services for the unincorporated area of 7,000 at a yearly cost. Cancellation would have been possible by the district only for material default.

McFadden argued on behalf of the litigants that such a contract would "impose the desires of elected officials far beyond their terms of office."

The attorney said he would have been "surprised if the court had granted a hearing."

Wayne Johnson, the commissioner who opposed the permanent contract arrangement, said, "This is the third time the matter has been brought up now. Hopefully the people who sit on the benches (courts) have open minds and have judged it strictly on its merits."

The much-debated contract, which was scheduled to go into effect in July, left the district with police service provided by the San Mateo County's Sheriff's Office.

After two months of protection provided on a short-term basis by the Sheriff's Office, the district and Daly City entered into a temporary contract, which will expire Feb. 28, 1978.

Shot 5 Times; Stable

Two young city bus riders were shot and wounded by a gunman who investigators said may have figured the jovial youths "were making fun of him."

Meredith Eddie, 20, of Daly City, was struck by five bullets in the barrage late Monday in front of the Cow Palace, police said. His friend, Suloco Mikaio, 16, San Francisco, was hit once in the leg.

Police said the two were shot shortly after getting off a bus by a black man who calmly walked away from the scene and hasn't been caught.

Mikaio said they were "laughing and joking around" on the bus when they noticed the man who later shot them. Officer Bob Faenzi said the man might have taken the joking personally and "figured they were making fun of him."

Eddie, who suffered chest, arms and leg wounds, was reported in good condition after surgery in San Francisco General Hospital. Mikaio was treated and released.

The newest segment of Pacifica's hiking and biking trail along Beach Boulevard was officially opened and dedicated Oct. 7. Holding the ribbon at the dedication are, from left, Stewart Cross, president of the Sharp Park Improvement Association, Councilwoman Janice Fulford, Bicyclist Clark Natwick and Mayor Sid Lorvan. Natwick is Pacifica's national junior champion in the cycle-cross.

D.C. Man Charged With Assault

A Daly City man was arrested at 8:45 Thursday night for allegedly striking his neighbor across the forehead with a knife.

Daly City police said Roger Sandoval, 29, 127 Irvington St., apparently argued with his neighbor, Percile Yika, 29, before producing a knife.

Yika was treated at Mary's Help Hospital, Daly City, for a wound from his hairline to his eyebrow and then released.

Special Tax Session Asked

San Mateo County Supervisor Fred Lyon announced today that the County Supervisors Network of which he is a member, is demanding that Gov. Brown call a special session of the legislature to deal with property tax reform.

Lyon said that the Network, representative of some 20 California counties, is prepared to circulate a referendum petition on tax reform if the governor fails to call a special session.

"It is our belief that the legislature has defaulted in its responsibility this year to deal with the matter," Lyon declared.

The County Supervisors Network was formed earlier this yeaar by "progressive" local legislators to discuss alternative means of governing, according to Lyon.

The network has discussed such issues as housing and taxation.

Lyon said that supervisors from each of the represented counties in the network made the announcement of the group's call for a special legislation session today.

For a Bicycle Path

Pacifica Wants Funds

Pacifica may get a $350,000 state-financed bicycle path, City Council members reported Monday night.

The council set Nov. 2 or Nov. 9 as possible dates to meet with California Department of Transportation officials to learn more about plans for the seacoast bike route.

Council members said they have heard the project is a definite item for next year's CalTrans budget. They would like the details on the proposal and other highway improvements for the Pacifica area.

"The bicycle path certainly is something that I would like to see," Mayor Sidney Lorvan said.

Th city recently completed a $26,332 bicycle path along Beach Boulevard from Paloma Avenue to Clarendon Road, but there have been complaints that the project has eliminated up to 100 parking spaces in the area.

The new path, dedicated last Friday, earlier was scheduled for council discussion, but did not come up at the Monday night session.

The council also acted on several routine items:

• Approved an operating agreement between the city and the state Parks and Recreation Commission for the San Pedro Beach area, in which the city will continue to maintain the area through periodic volunteer efforts.

• Set Oct. 26 to interview applicants for a new Housing and Community Development Act (HCDA) Advisory Committee to work with future city efforts in housing rehabilitation.

• Set up procedures for a city weed abatement program, to include mechanical, rather than chemical, clearing of weeds, rubbish, refuse and dirt on private properties.

• Approved seeking an architect to begin improvement plans for the senior citizen facility of Oddstad Recreation Center.

• Contracted with the Action Processing firm to remove scum from the sewage treatment process for five years at $1,300 per year.

• Sent to the Planning Commission a proposal to decrease some parking requirements in a development plan to house senior citizens.

Jeff Teachers, District at Odds Again

Teacher representatives in the Jefferson Elmentary School District have charged the school board with "misleading, deceitful and arrogant actions" in connection with letters being mailed to teachers' physicians.

Jefferson Classroom Teachers Association president Garry Bieringer said the school district "has threatened to send a letter to a teacher's physician verifying that the teacher was in fact unable to attend back-to-school night due to illness.

"This is one of the most misleading, deceitful and arrogant actions ever taken by the Jefferson school board," he said.

The letter reads, in part, "Your patient, ----, is employed as a teacher in the ----- school district. As you know, on ----, a number of teachers in the district withdrew their services from the district."

"We believe this letter is a violation of patient/doctor confidentiality, and that no physician or teacher should be placed in this type of situation," added Katie Jahns, co-chairwoman of the bargaining team.

"The district seems to be saying these teachers have refused to teach. This is a blatant lie, and the district knows it," Bierlinger added.

The letter to physicians also reads, "Please feel free to discuss this letter with your patient. The form has been approved by the district attorney's office."

Teachers and the district have failed to agree on a contract for both the 1976-77 and 1977-78 school years.

"It's another example of the Jefferson Elementary School District board's hostile and negative response to a situation," Bieringer said. "Why this school district spends most of its time pulling power plays on teachers

Officers Wrestle Rifle from Woman

A woman weilding a rifle and allegedly threatening to shoot the first person she saw was arrested by Daly City police Saturday afternoon and charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

The woman, Judith McVey, 208 Westlake Ave., was arrested at her home about 4 p.m., Saturday. She now is at Chope Hospital for evaluation.

Sgt. Ken Cole and Officers John Warren and Art Glass made the arrest.

According to police, Mrs. McVey refused to allow the officers to enter her home. Police, however, stationed themselves outside her home, and as she walked down some stairs, Sgt. Cole charged her.

The woman, police said, swung her 22 calibre weapon in an attempt to shoot Sergeant Cole, but Cole deflected the gun barrel. One shot was fired.

The officers are, from left, Club Founder Mary Cipresso, President Mary Matty, Vice President Lou Pertini, Secretary Sue Bertini and Treasurer Joseph Loenetti. The club meets every Thursday at 11 a.m. at the Holy Angels Parish Hall.

and threatening court action and loss of pay is beyond me. Parents deserve their school board to be concerned with education — not with threats and power."

Pete Hansen, district superintendent, said Tuesday the letter was prepared "to keep confusion at a minimum."

He said back-to-school night attendance was nearly 100 per cent, and that each teacher that missed that night due to illness had a doctor's verification.

"In the case of an illness, we believe a doctor should verify it," he said. "But to this point, there has been no teacher affected by this letter. And, it's a perfectly legal document."

Court

who along with Commissioner Dean Davenport supported the permanent contract, said his goal will be to "get re-elected in November and go for a four-year contract."

Davenport also is up for election in November.

McCloskey explained that such a contract would not go beyond his new term of office, if he is successful. He said he has "no idea" whether Daly City officials would agree to a four-year arrangement."

Daly City City Manager David Rowe earlier had stipulated that a long-term, non-cancellable arrangement was necessary, because the city would be making a costly investment by making Broadmoor police employes permanent Daly City personnel.

Broadmoor's seven police employes became temporary Daly City employes under the present contract. They formerly composed the independent Broadmoor Police Department, which ceased operations in December, 1976, because of liability insurance problems.

However, two of the Broadmoor employes, Al Nickas and Bob Habermas, were accepted Oct. 1 as permanent employes of Daly City. The moves were a result of requests for lateral transfers.

San Bruno Wants Closer Look

Action on the design concept of a new community center was delayed for two weeks Monday night, because San Bruno City Council members want to take a closer look at architectural plans and a 30-page advisory group report.

Councilman John Barnard expressed concern about projected costs of rehabilitating the former Hatlo Market into a community center. He also said he wants to know the cost of staffing the center. The advisory group has recommended hiring a full-time director, a full-time secretary-receptionist and a part-time evening director.

Parks and Recreation Director Paul Crum has estimated the cost of the rehabilitation at $350,000 — some $115,000 more than allowable under the federal grant for the project. In other business, the council:

Holy Angels Celebrates 25th

Parishioners of Holy Angels in Colma proudly joined together at a special 12:15 Mass recently to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the school.

The entire liturgy reflected the special efforts of Catholic education to teach not only the necessary basics of learning but the Christian virtues that Catholics should carry through life.

In a special sermon, Holy Angels pastor Father Edward Cleary told of the history and development of the school.

At the reception that followed the special Mass gifts commemorating the Silver Anniversary were presented to Sister Pauline, Provincial of the Order, Sister Helen, principal, and Sisters Hilary, Evelyn and Cecilia. The sisters were with the school when it opened and Sister Hilary, after a brief absence, is presently teaching fifth grade there.

Holy Angels School opened in Sept. 1952 by Father Morrissey and five Sisters of the Infant Jesus, also known as Drishane Sisters, which were missionary sisters from Ireland.

In 1952 there were only five grades, 50 children to a grade and a long waiting list.

Lay teachers were introduced in 1965 and now teach in many of the eight grades.

Seals In the Mail

One of the nation's oldest voluntary health agencies, the Lung Association, has completed its annual mailing of Christmas Seals to over 71,000 homes and businesses in the San Mateo area.

In making the announcement, Mrs. Elizabeth Roepke of the Lung Association of San Mateo County stated, "Christmas Seals have been a holiday tradition for 71 years. In 1907 they crusaded against the 'white plague', tuberculosis. In addition, the Seals now wage a year 'round battle against other lung diseases such as emphysema, asthma, chronic bronchitis and the health menaces of cigarette smoking and air pollution."

Forty-seven million Americans — or one in five — are known to suffer from some form of chronic respiratory condition. Fifteen million are afflicted with chronic obstructive pulmonary diseases such as emphysema, chronic bronchitis and asthma. Crippling lung disabilities claim over 40,000 persons every year.

"Just as staggering," Mrs. Roepke added, "is the fact that respiratory disease costs the nation $16.5 billion yearly in medical and personal expenses as well as lost income."

Contributions to Christmas Seals help finance medical research, community and patient services, and public health and professional education.

Anyone wanting Christmas Seals or failing to receive the traditional Christmas Seal letter can contact the Lung Association at 2250 Palm Ave., San Mateo, 349-1111.

COMMUNICATING

Ralph Sedano, a deaf student at San Francisco State University, communicated with first and second grade students at Abraham Lincoln School, Daly City, last week. Sedano, a student in both the elementary and deaf credential programs, enhanced a unit on hearing which the children were learning. Sedano's interpreter came along to show the children how two people can communicate through a different form of interaction other than speech.

Students commended, Elected

The Regent

By JULIE SMITH
Commissioner of Publicity

Senior Duncan McNeil has been designated a commended student in the 1978 National Merit Scholarship Program. Duncan's honor is the result of his outstanding performance on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) which was administered nationwide to high school juniors in October 1976.

Duncan is not able to continue in the Merit Scholarship competition, but has increased his opportunities for college admission and financial aid. NMSC has offered him an opportunity to have identifying information sent by the corporation to two higher education institutions of his choice.

On Sept. 29, Serramonte held class officers elections. There was a lot of competition this year. The results are: Senior President Rochele Pierson, Vice President Pam Sneed, Secretary Jennifer Jenkins and Treasurer Ernestine Smith.

Junior president is Denise Williams, Vice President Diana Law, Secretary Gloria Bombon, Treasurer Ty Cheng. Sophomore President Genny Hom, Vice President Leslie McNeil, Secretary Rosally Felix and Treasurer Lucy Rodriguez.

Freshman president is Cynthia Haynes, Vice President Ann Lewis, Secretary Bonnie Worthy and Treasurer Roshanne Pierson.

Serramonte's Oriental Club elected this year's officers. They are: President Janice Lee, Vice President and Treasurer Cheryl Keh and Secretary Lana Dong. The members of the Oriental Club are Mylene Biete, Herbert Cheng, Ty Cheng, Lindsay Chu, Arlene Cruz, Lana Dong, Elaine Eng, Mailene Eng, Angelo Hernandez, Nino Hernandez, Genny Hom, Cheryl Keh, Gregory Keh, Horace Kwan, Kornell Kwok, Gordon Lee, Janice Lee, Patty Lee, Peter Lee, Sharon Lee, Lori Malate, Shirly Ong, Alex Yee, David Yee, Lisa Yee, Norman Yee and Mattew Young.

The Oriental Club has planned to do some fund-raising, go ice-skating, go out to dinner and to have a booth at the carnival.

On Oct. 18 at 7:30 p.m. Serramonte High School will host a College Night where juniors and seniors and their parents can hear representatives from the University of California campuses, the state universities, the community colleges and private universities explain their programs and opportunities.

Serramonte's executive board has 60 tickets to the hit musical "The Wiz." The tickets cost $4.25 and $6.50 with a student body card and $5 and $7 without.

Student Body cards are on sale for $6. You can receive discounts from various Daly City merchants.

Help Wanted

These agencies have requested volunteer assistance from the Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County, with offices in Burliname, Daly City and Redwood City.

The local telephone number for area residents is 992-0957, an answering service. Residents also can call the main office in Burlingame at 342-0801, from 9 to 5, Monday through Friday.

AID TO VICTIMS AND WITNESSES — Volunteers are needed to assist victims and witnesses of violent crimes. Volunteers participate in many ways, including witness guides at the courthouse and assisting victims. Complete training and direction is provided and this can be a valuable learning experience as well as helping others.

AMERICAN RED CROSS — Volunteers are needed to assist with the English as a second language classes on Tuesday or Wednesday evenings for one hour. No experience is necessary nor knowledge of another language. A volunteer also is needed as a coordinator to help interview, supervise and recruit volunteers. The days and hours are flexible.

ADULT PROTECTIVE SERVICES — Someone skilled in sign language who is willing to spend a few hours per week as an interpreter is needed urgently. Assistant is needed the end of October, during the day, and any help you could offer would be greatly appreciated.

PARENTAL STRESS SERVICE — A training session for new volunteers to staff the 24-hour crisis line will begin Oct. 18 in the evening. Volunteer telephone counselors help people cope with the difficult tasks of parenting. An interview is required prior to the training.

AMERICAN RED CROSS — Volunteers are urgently needed to assist in a children's immunization program against childhood diseases at various locations throughout Northern San Mateo County. It will take place in the afternoon of Oct. 17, 19, 26 and 27 at different sites. This is for non-medical assistance and many volunteers are needed.

San Bruno Gets Postal Station

Persistent San Bruno residents, including a contingent of senior citizens, have won their struggle to locate a contract postal station in the downtown business area.

The U. S. Postal Service announced last week that it has selected Todd's Toys and Hobbies, 520 San Mateo Ave., as the site for a station, which will be run by Mike Mason, the store's new owner.

Negotiations between postal officials and Mason last week ended in a final bid of $6,999 — reduced from the merchant's original written bid of $8,000, according to postal official Guido Alasia.

The station will be open six days a week, eight hours a day, said Alasia, who is district manager for San Francisco area Postal Service.

As soon as Mason can obtain a security bond of $3,000, the station will be opened for business, Alasia said.

"We don't anticipate any problem," he said. He expects it will open within two weeks.

Mason had no comment Tuesday, since he had not yet received official word of his bid's acceptance.

San Bruno residents were told more than a year ago that their post office in Mills Park Plaza would move to the northeast corner of the city on the South San Francisco border.

But, it wasn't until a few weeks before the move on Sept. 12 that public concern began to grow. Senior citizens in particular were alarmed, because they would no longer be able to walk to the post office, as they were accustomed to doing for more than 20 years.

New Bank, restaurants Approved

Objections by Pacifica's fire marshal failed to halt approval by the Planning Commission last week of three new structures in the Fairmont Shopping Center.

Fire Marshal Kenneth Curtis said the Fire Department wanted the applicant to extend an existing water main to improve the center's water supply system.

The applicant, represented by Horst Hanf, countered that it would cost nearly $20,000 to do so.

A new bank and two restaurants for the center were approved by commissioners by a 4-2 vote.

Commissiners also aproved a use permit for D&D Cycle in the Pedro Point Shopping Center to add 2,000 square feet of storage space to the existing building.

The commission denied a second request by D&D in which the shop sought a permit to test dirt bikes between 1 and 3 p.m. on weekdays.

By a vote of 5-1, the commission approved a site development permit for a Fotomat kiosk in the Eureka Square Shopping Center.

Gloria Seybold was denied a home occupation permit appeal to convert her garage area at 308 Magellan Drive into a dance studio for neighborhood children.

This meeting will be tonight at 7:30 in the school cafeteria.

Parents and community members can attend. Purpose will be to allow citizens and parents time to make suggestions for change and to offer comments in regard to these three programs. Finally, these three programs have budgets of almost $100,000 and the teachers and administrators would like parental input about the expenditures and the quality of these programs.

Principal Dion Dubois asks parents to attend and is offering transportation and translation services for those who are not fluent in English. If transportation is needed, cal 992-9555.

Fitness During Pregnancy

Too often pregnant women suffer unnecessarily from backaches, aching legs or fatigue. Many of these "symptoms of pregnancy" can be prevented through a regular, safe exercise program, says Carol S. Dilfer, author of "Your Baby, Your Body: Fitness During Pregnancy."

Beginning Oct. 17, Ms. Dilfer will offer a tri-weekly fitness class for pregnant women and new mothers. Entitled, "Prenatal/Postpartum Fitness Program," the class will meet each Monday, Wednesday and Friday from noon to 12:45 p.m. at San Mateo Gymnastics, 2201 Palm Ave., San Mateo.

Each participant is required to have a medical release from her attending physician, and there is a fee. No babysitting is provided, but children are welcome to attend the class with their mothers.

For details call 341-8807.

Panels Aid DMV

You've stood in lines at Department of Motor Vehicles offices. How would you run things differently?

More than 1,000 volunteers in 104 cities throughout California have had their say on operations of DMV, donating tens of thousands of hours in an attempt to help the department make its services more responsive to local needs, according to Manager L. T. Buchanan Jr. of the Daly City DMV field office.

The volunteers are members of Backseat Driver Public Panels, which have been established by 89 of DMV's 147 offices statewide.

Buchanan issued a call today for new members from the area served by his office "to help keep the department on the right road.

"We have asked these Public Panel members to scrutinize our operations at all levels, from the way we run the local field offices, to the way we write our forms and publications, to our efforts to handle problems like the uninsured motorist and the drunk drivers," Buchanan said.

The local panel has recently worked on insurance rating policy and consumer complaints. It plans to discuss the Privcy Act at its next meeting, to be held at the Daly City DMV office Oct. 17, starting at 7 p.m.

"I believe we are spearheading a new kind of voluntarism," Buchanan said, "one which reduces the cost of government while directly involving the public in creative, analytical, and administrative activities."

For details, cll Buchanan at 755-9113, or contact the local DMV field office, 1500 Sullivan Ave.

"Since formation of the public panels, the department has returned more than $20 million in appropriated funds that were not used, in part because of improved efficiency. The public panels have contributed to these savings," Buchanan said, adding: "Citizen involvement is not only good government, it's good business."

Motor Blamed For Fire

Fire burned two decks and the outside wall of a Millbrae home recently.

Damage of $10,000 was estimated by firemen, who said they believe an overheated refrigeration motor caused the blaze at 1320 Millbrae Ave.

Fire officials said the flames from the motor probably ignited the exterior wall from the deck on which it was located.

The alarm was sounded at 2:48 a.m.

Meanwhile, in South San Francisco at 12:35 a.m., firemen were summoned to a blazing unoccupied dwelling, scheduled to be razed soon, at 317 Commercial Ave.

South San Francisco High School's John Buerger has his head rocked back by Serramonte High's Mark Scheffler as latter applied block in game Friday.

NPL Football

Form True In Openers

By JOHN MURPHY

There were no surprises on the opening day of North Peninsula League football. All of the favorites won.

In Friday's most exciting game Terra Nova defeated cross-town rival Oceana 24-21 before a capacity crowd under the lights at Terra Nova.

In other NPL contests visiting Westmoor beat Jefferson 23-7, South City dropped host Serramonte 38-20 and visiting Half Moon Bay whipped El Camino 35-6.

Oceana-Terra Nova

Terra Nova regained possession of the coveted Anchor Trophy as Tiger quarterback Mike Diaz had a sensational game.

Diaz, a 6-2, 190 pound senior, picked apart an inexperienced Oceana secondary with his pinpoint passing. He completed 16 of 20 passes for 242 yards and two touchdowns. He also carried the ball 17 times for 58 yards.

Oceana running back Randy Swayne rushed for 110 yards on 21 carries, caught five passes for 95 yards and scored two touchdowns.

Terra Nova jumped out to a 10-0 lead in the second quarter on a one yard run by Diaz and a 28-yard field goal by Dennis Sadlowski. However, Oceana countered with a five-yard TD burst by Swayne to make it 10-7 at the half.

On Terra Nova's first possession of the second half Diaz passed and ran the Tigers 66 yards to paydirt. The drive was culminated by a fourth down, 15 yard TD pass to tight end Joe Belli.

But Oceana struck right back by marching 63 yards in just five plays Swayne pulled the Sharks to within three with a 33 yard TD reception from QB Dan Lee.

Terra Nova's clinching points came on the following series as wide receiver Mike Mooney grabbed a sideline pass, maintained his balance after being hit by an Oceana defender, faked out two more Sharks, and then sprinted 62 yards to put TN up 24-14.

Just before the end of the third quarter, Oceana halfback Mike Sarmento capped an eight-play, 70-yard drive with a one yard plunge as the Sharks crept to within three once again. But Terra Nova's aggressive defense barely allowed Oceana past midfield in the fourth quarter.

Although this was the league opener for both teams, Oceana, oddly enough, is now 0-2 in NPL play. Earlier in the week the NPL Board of Managers penalized the Sharks with a loss for taking part in an unsanctioned preseason scrimmage (Sept. 3-4 at South Lake Tahoe).

South City-Serramonte

A comparison of statistics would seem to indicate that Serramonte dominated South City. The Regents outgained SSF 163 to 132, had seven more first downs and ran 22 more plays than the Warriors.

Serramonte did lead 14-7 in the second period and would have been ahead by more had not halfback Darryl Jones been ruled out of bounds on what seemed to be a 35-yard touchdown run.

But the Regents made too many mistakes to win and South City gratefully capitalized on every one of them. Interceptions, fumbles and a pitiful kicking game all contributed to the Regents' demise.

Halfback Dave Palmer had 13 carries for 57 yards and scored two TD's to pace SSF's offensive attack.

Half Moon Bay-El Camino

Half Moon Bay QB Scott Mathews completed 16 of 25 passes for 189 yards and four touchdowns in the Cougars' easy win over El Camino.

Three of those TD passes went to tight end John Galvin who wound up with five receptions for 67 yards. Wide receiver Barry Short also had a big evening. He latched on to seven of Mathews' aerials for 74 yards and one TD.

Lyle Eklof produced Camino's only score in the second period when he took a kickoff on his own 15 yard line and burst 85 yards up the middle to cut HMB's lead to 7-6. It was all downhill from there for the Colts.

Westmoor-Jefferson

Fullback Mike McLennan returned to the Westmoor lineup, much to the dismay of the Indians. McLennan rushed for 100 yards on 15 carries and had one TD.

Jefferson led briefly in the second period when Donald Ball's 63-yard fumble return put the Indians up 7-6. But Jeff couldn't generate enough offense to keep up with Westmoor's high-powered attack. The Rams outgained their opponents 224 to 66.

Westmoor QB Tony Limutau also sparked the Rams offensively. He ran for one TD and tossed a 13-yard scoring pass to Rich Rogers in the third period.

Surprise Offense Does It

Bulldogs Beat Owls 24-7

College of San Mateo's football team has established a reputation for wide-open, pass-filled football while producing the highest offensive average among Northern California community college teams this fall.

So when the Bulldogs came out in an unbalanced line Friday night at Foothill and kept the ball on the ground, they caught the Owls off guard. The result was a 13-play drive after the opening kickoff for a 7-0 lead.

But San Mateo had to settle for a 7-7 halftime deadlock, then take advantage of three second half turnovers to post a 24-7 Golden Gate Conference victory.

That enabled CSM (2-1) to grab a share of second place with Laney, a 23-20 loser to unbeaten De Anza Friday night.

GGC passing leader Ralph Costanzo didn't throw a pass on that initial series. "We just decided we could run on them and started running," said the CSM soph. "Before tonight stats meant a lot to me. But winning is more important. I didn't scramble a lot tonight, but stayed in the pocket. My line was getting down on me for scrambling."

CSM coach Bill Dickey explained how the Bulldogs confused Foothill on that initial series. "We unbalanced our line and they weren't able to adjust. We overshifted our guard to get them out of their stunt. What we wanted to do was to dominate the line of scrimmage at the start."

"I try to do something a little different each week," CSM offensive coordinator Tom Martinez pointed out. "Then they have to coach during the game."

And that's what Foothill tried to do as CSM shifted from one side to the other and scored on Costanzo's one-yard sneak.

Costanzo figured in all three San Mateo touchdowns, sneaking for two scores and passing two yards to John Sievers for the third.

The Bulldogs drove for the winning TD early in the second half. Tony Cordano's fumble recovery on the Owl 18 and Dewey Bohling's 13 yard run set-up Costanzo for the QB sneak with 10:48 left in the period.

Five minutes later Dennis Murray pounced on a fumble on the Foothill 28. Bohling and fullback Jim Walsh got it down to the two after which Costanzo passed to Sievers for the score.

CSM got a bit of frosting — and some confidence back in its kicking game — after Mike Lacy retrieved a fumble on Foothill's 16 with 4:30 remaining in the game. Dave Waterman split the uprights on a 24-yard field goal, adding to his three perfect conversion kicks on the night.

Serra grad Greg Hart grabbed two pass interceptions for the Bulldogs. Most important one came just before halftime when the Owls were threatening on the CSM eight. Hart dropped to his knees in the end zone to intercept Damian Shine and kill the threat.

While CSM had by far its best defensive effort of the season, allowing only 206 yards, the Bulldogs themselves totaled only 293 yards — well below their 438.7 average.

CSM returns home next Saturday to host defending champion San Jose CC at 1:30 p.m.

Assistant Coaches Return to the Field

Oscar Sura and Ralph Sermeno were both key members of Skyline College's Coast Conference championship soccer squad of a year ago.

Both graduated from the San Bruno college last year and this season they are working as assistants to head coach Norm Friedeberg.

However, last Saturday, Sura and Sermeno left their whistles and playbooks in the locker room and opted for playing in Skyline's annual alumni game — both being key reasons for the alumni's come-from-behind performance to conclude the contest in a 3-3 tie.

The Trojans finished the pre-season with a 5-5-1 record and this Friday afternoon at 3 p.m. the locals host Gavilan College in their second Coast Conference game of the year.

Skyline latched onto a 1-0 lead against the squad of former Skyline soccer players early in the opening half. Striker Petro Estakhri got himself in a one-on-one situation with the Skyline alumni goalie and after one fake, Estakhri buried the ball in the back of the net.

FORWARD STEVE Gavrielides scored midway through the first half for a 2-0 Skyline advantage. Rick Lee tallied a score for the Alums to cut the Trojan lead to 2-1. However toward the close of the half, fullback Nick Barulich wound up and let loose a rocket from forty yards out for a 3-1 halftime lead for the Trojans.

the second half, Sura played in the goalie area where he performed last season and shut out his former teammates. Sura's shut-out performance in the second half enabled the Alumni, with Sermeno playing at the wing positon, to score two quick goals and end the game in a 3-3 tie.

"Some of the Alumni players thought that we would just walk all over them. But this is the best ball that they (the Skyline squad) have played all year," Sermeno said.

VISITING FROM ENGLAND

John Dorricott, right, an inspector with the Metropolitan Police in Yorkshire, England, visited Daly City last Friday as part of his three-month visit to the United States to study juvenille correctional and enforcement procedures. He is talking here with Jim Bondan, left, assistant coordinator of the Neighborhood Family Project in Daly City, and Juvenile Officer Dennis Pinnatore. The Neighborhood Family Project attempts to get youngsters out of the justice system and into a counseling-type situation along with their parents.

August. The last of the first rationing bills will go out by the end of October.

Each residential user is allocated 1,800 cubic feet bi-monthly. If there are more than four persons in a household, the head of the family was supposed to register for an extra 240 cubic feet per person.

However, Mrs. Rehe said people forgot or didn't find out about the requirement, despite citywide mailings on the subject.

The administrative assistant checked one billing book in the Serramonte area, which showed that 29 out of 133 accounts were billed penalties for exceeding their allotments.

"The penalties ranged from 60 cents to $68," she said.

Under the ordinance, penalties for excess water use are listed at $1 for the first 100 cubic feet above allocation to installation of flow restrictor devices by the city.

Mrs. Rehe said there has been a steady stream of customers to City Hall for the purpose of getting an adjustment in the penalty-laden bills.

The city will adjust the bills, she warned, only if there are moe than four family members or a serious health problem.

Woman Freed By Jury

A Superior Court jury in Redwood City has acquitted Verda Roberson of voluntary manslaughter in the knife-slaying of her boyfriend in East Palo Alto 15 months ago.

Jurors in the courtroom of Judge Robert E. Carey, believed the 30-year-old Ms. Roberson's self-defense version. Killed was Bluitt McMahon, 27, of Newark.

Ms. Roberson, represented by attorney Zerne Haning III, testified that she stabbed McMahon after he beat her.

Other witnesses, including McMahon's cousin, testified that the victim frequently became violent when he drank.

The District Attorney's Office, represented by prosecutor Phil Cronin, had sought a manslaughter conviction on the grounds that the killing was intentional during a sudden quarrel or in the heat of passion.

But Haning argued that Ms. Roberson was acting in self-defense.

It was the econd time that Haning has represented a defendant who has been acquitted of a homicide. He joins Gene McDonald, now a Municipal Court judge, as the only attorney in modern county history to have represented two clients acquitted of murder or manslaughter.

Seeds of Local Unification Have Been Sewn

A suggestion has come to us:

"Why can't Daly City, Colma, Broadmoor and even Brisbane merge to form a more efficient government?"

Look out! There are people who will wonder what kind of juice you're drinking. Yet stranger things have happened. After some 170 years Nashville and Davidson County, Tennessee, merged into one government. Within the present decade, Indianapolis joined with its suburbs to form the country's 11th largest city. Pocatello, Idaho and its environs united. Unified governments have been achieved by Jacksonville, Florida and Columbus, Georgia. Other mergers have been noted in Kentucky, Virginia, New York, Florida and Massachusetts. In our own state there have been many annexations in the name of better government.

Surely there is a need for a unified government in Northern San Mateo County. Think of it: one city, one unified council, one tax base, one municipal code, a stronger voice in county and state affairs. It could bring an end to the jumble we now have, wherein it is nearly impossible to tell who has the responsibility for a given area.

The seeds of unification have been sewn with the cooperative ventures of the various branches of government — police, fire, library, to mention a few — and with activities of the school districts that cover the entire area successfully. To merge would require a high degree of statesmanship; but it could be done.

Before merging, the Indianapolis area contained 18 governmental units for what was termed an "ungovernable mishmash." Within these groups there was so much dislike and distrust that the officers had to appoint a task force to examine the legions of problems and formulate ways to satisfy them, so unification would be possible.

In the Pocatello area, annexations were not possible until independent water and sewage companies could be molded into single units. Before the Nashville merger, large sections of the various codes had to be rewritten. Yet the people of those areas rose to the occasion. So could the people of the Colma-Daly City area.

In merging, no district would lose its identity. There would still be Colma, Old Daly City, Serramonte, Westlake, Bayshore, Southern Hill, Brisbane, etc. But they would be united into a healthy, forceful city that could tackle problems with power and coordination. Such a city would have the means to develop a comprehensive, workable city plan for the maximum use of land and other resources.

Thinking of such a merger recalls the various chapters of "Volume 40, Number 1" of "The Reference Shelf." The editors write, "No city is likely to solve its problems with the archaic governmental structures that now exist." They further advise that we have reached a time that calls for communities to face honestly the fact that they are trying to solve today's problems with "obsolete tools."

As Paul D. Spreiregen wrote for "The Reference Shelf," "Although we Americans have built splendid communities in the past, we are now unable to put a sufficient number of ideas to work. This is indeed unfortunate in a nation that has been among the foremost in history as an innovator of rural, of urban, and of architectural form.

A unified city in Northern San Mateo County. It could be a reality; it probably won't. So — go back to sleep. It was a beautiful dream.

Two New Laws Protect Handicapped Students

"A virtual Magna Carta for handicapped children" is how Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public instruction describes two new laws, one state and one federal, that went into effect this month.

"The laws, one based on the California Master Plan for Special Education (Assembly Bill 1250 by Assemblyman Frank Lanterman of La Canada), and the federal Education for All Handicapped Children Act (Public Law 94-142), extend the same basic rights to handicapped children that other children have enjoyed for more than 200 years," Riles said.

The federal law, which became effective on Oct. 1, guarantees a "free and appropriate education," regardless of handicap.

"Parents of able-bodied children are not expected to pay for their child's elementary and secondary education. Neither should the parents of a handicapped child be burdened with such costs," Riles said.

Under provisions of both laws, each handicapped child in California will be assessed for strengths, weaknesses and any disabilities by local school districts. If the child's needs, as determined by the assessment, cannot be met by the local school district, the child can be referred to a state special school or to a private nonsectarian school.

In either case, the child's tuition, transportation, room and board can be paid with public funds.

Riles said the state and federal laws also require that each child be educated in the "least restrictive environment" appropriate for the child's needs.

For the marginally handicapped child, the least restrictive environment may be a regular public school class with additional services from a specialist or teacher's aide. However, he added, other children may be served best in a special class with added opportunities, such as field trips and recess, that encourage handicapped and nonhandicapped children to know each other.

Riles pointed out that the most severely handicapped persons will continue to be educated apart from the nonhandicapped in private and state schools.

The effort to educate handicapped children "in the mainstream," he added, is getting new impetus from a second federal law that extends civil rights to all handicapped persons. Amendments to the Vocational Rehabilitation Act that are concerned with nondiscrimination of the handicapped require schools and medical and social agencies to make their programs accessible to handicapped persons.

The purpose: to end segregation of the handicapped and to provide them with the same educational opportunities available to other children.

The amendments declare that any schools built after June 3, 1977, must be barrier-free. In addition, programs in existing buildings must be accessible, either through changes in room assignments, use of aides or other modifications.

Major structural changes are necessary "only as a last resort," Riles said.

Another new privilege extended to handicapped children is the right to be free of the stigma of labels.

The Lanterman bill, signed by Governor Edmund G. Brown, Jr., on Oct. 1, replaces such labels as "mentally retarded" and "emotionaly disturbed" with the umbrella term "individuals with exceptional needs." Under previous law, schools had to label children to receive special education funds. The new law allocates money based on the educational services each child receives, rather than on the child's handicap or categorical label.

"The new rights won by handicapped children can also benefit other students," Riles added. California's drive to individualize education is strengthened by a federal requirement that each handicapped child be given an educational plan tailored to the child's individual needs. The plan is determined by a team, composed of the student's special or regular teachers, a special education administrator, the parents and when appropriate, the student.

The plan sets goals for the student and specifies the educational programs that will help the student meet those goals.

Riles said both state and federal laws prohibit placement decisions based on tests that may be culturally or racially biased.

Parents are given significant new rights by both laws. For example, they must give written consent before their child is assessed, and they have the right to obtain and read copies of their child's school records. If they disagree with placement decisions, parents may appeal beyond the school district to the state superintendent of public instruction.

Both laws require districts to formally notify parents of their rights.

Riles pointed to differences between the federal law and California's master plan on ages of students covered. The federal law says all handicapped children ages 3 to 18 will be served in 1978 and 1979, and ages 3 to 21 must be included by 1980.

However, California has been granted an exception to these deadlines, thus permitting the state to follow the master plan schedule concerning ages included. The master plan begins by providing special education services to all severely handicapped persons from age 3 to 21, but districts are allowed to serve some children below age 3 at their option.

Access To Files Of DMV

California's Department of Motor Vehicles has changed the rules on the public's access to its files.

Anytime an individual seeks data from someone else's vehicle registration records, the owner of the vehicle will be notified, told the name of the person seeking the information and the reason given for seeking it. The requester's identification will be verified.

The form that the requester must fill out at a DMV office to obtain the data will remain in DMV files for 90 days, available to law enforcement and other authorities.

THESE ARE the key provisions of Assembly Bill 465 authored by Redondo Beach Assemblywoman Marilyn Ryan. The bill is effective Jan. 1, but DMV is activating its provisions now, under the director's discretionary authority.

The new law parallels a DMV policy instituted by Director Herman Sillas in February 1976, under which the notification to the subject of an inquiry had been on a spot-check pilot basis, with only some subjects so advised. The Ryan bill makes the advice to the vehicle owner mandatory.

The requester must pay $1 for the information sought.

COMMERCIAL ACCOUNTS, defined as frequent and large-volume users of vehicle registration information, follow a procedure different from that for the individual. They may apply for a "Requester Code," establish a legitimate reason for the data and deposit a fee or bond to cover the cost. In these cases, vehicle owners are not notified of the inquiry, but the department periodically releases to the news media a list of the commercial requesters.

Driver's license records are not affected by the Ryan bill. Requests for this information will be honored over the counter only for those seeking their own records. Information about others' driver's licenses must be requested by letter to Sacramento headquarters, not over the counter, and must state a legitimate need. The requester must provide either driver's license number and name, or name and birthdate, to obtain this information. A fee is charged, but the subject of the inquiry is not notified.

1 egg
⅛ teaspoon salt
1 cup (6-oz) Semi-Sweet Chocolate Morsels
½ cup chopped walnuts
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine in bowl the half cup brown sugar, one egg and one-eighth teaspoon salt, beat till very thick. Stir in the six ounces Chocolate Morsels, half cup chopped walnuts and half teaspoon vanilla.

Spoon one tablespoonful over each cupcake. Return to oven. Bake at 375 degrees for 16 minutes.

Yields 16 servings.

School Trustee Says Police 'Do Nothing'

Jefferson Elementary School District employees have been reluctant to openly criticize a lack of police coverage at Daly City-Colma schools for fear the situation might worsen, Trustee Beverly Forrester charged.

But now, with Mrs. Forrester Leading the way, district employees are beginning to speak out, she said.

"I have three signed statements from Colma School officials who have stated numerous occasions when police came to the scene and said there was nothing they could do (to stop infractions of the law on school grounds)," she said.

The JESD trustees and the Daly City Police Department have been at odds openly for several weeks. Trustees claim that the department doesn't properly patrol school areas and allows illegal activities to occur. Police deny the allegations.

"Employees in our district," Mrs. Forrester added, "have gotten to the point of not bothering to call the police, because there is nothing they will do. And, some have been afraid to speak up to police officials, because they are afraid the situation could worsen."

Mrs. Forrester said one signed statement from a Colma School employe, who did not wish to be identified, charges that police officers refused to confiscate beer children were drinking on school grounds.

"I do know there are laws that say it is illegal to possess liquor on school grounds. Why do the police, when called to the scene, say there is nothing they can do? By ignoring somewhat minor violations — if you call vandalism, threats and consumption of liquor minor violations — our kids will get bolder and try bigger things.

"The police should do something to stop them now."

Perhaps, Mrs. Forrester added, "the police department is not aware that officers are not responding properly to calls."

Fatal Drivers

A recent study indicates that 70 per cent of the drivers in the United States who are involved in a fatal traffic accident don't have any serious driving violations on their records prior to the accident.

The study also indicates that 80 per cent of those drivers have no previous accident record and are driving within the law at the time of the accident.

Pacifica Losing Officers

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Pacifica's Police Department lost its 13th staff member since Jan. 1 when Officer Alejandro Cruise submitted his resignation Tuesday to join the San Jose Police Department.

Police Chief Mal Nelson said yet another officer is being wooed by Palo Alto police, but he believes morale in the department hasn't been seriously affected.

Nelson has completed an anonymous survey of employes which he said shows morale at "seven or eight" on a 10-point scale.

Past employes of the department disagree. "A lot of guys are dissatisfied," said one. "They're really shorthanded. That's part of the problem."

Another pointed out that officers get tired of constant harassment caused by the demands of the job. "It affects their lives and their families. Sometimes, it comes down to a choice of a job or family," he said.

Despite 12 current vacancies in the department — six of which will be new positions for a crime prevention unit — Nelson said he has no qualms about the quality of police protection that Pacifica is receiving.

He pointed out that his department had a 26 per cent turnover rate in 1968, when nine of the total staff of 35 left. The 13 employes who have left since Jan. 1 this year account for a 25 per cent turnover rate when compared to the department's total of 53 positions (six of which are the crime unit officers).

Why are so many officers leaving? Nelson said the officers have good reasons, ranging from a desire to work in private industry to accepting higher paying police positions with other cities. Nelson explained that one officer left to live in Sacramento, where his wife has a good job; another decided he wasn't suited for police work, and others retired early.

Nelson said Pacifica doesn't pay officers as well as some cities, but he believes the salaries are "pretty close" when fringe benefits are considered.

Sgt. Thomas Hauser, who recently took a disability retirement from the department, agrees with Nelson that Pacifica is not suffering unduly from the loss of police officers.

He said the extra work load falling on the remaining officers is "a hardship, not a crisis."

Hauser remarked, "All police officers are overworked, even when the force is up to strength."

He believes officers use the Pacifica Police Department as a stepping stone to larger departments.

"The biggest thing is to get in a bigger department, where you have a better chance for specialization. Pacifica can't afford too much specialization," he said.

Hauser said Pacifica frequently rotates the duties of officers so that they become experienced in all phases of police work. That well-rounded experience makes them more attractive to other departments, he added.

"This year, for some reason, there have been a number of police departments hiring in the Bay Area. This hasn't happened for about five years," Hauser commented.

Officer George Quinn receives a Certificate of Commendation from Daly City Chief of Police David A. Hansen for his work in apprehending two wanted persons following a high speed chase from Daly City into San Bruno on Sept. 28. Quinn observed the two suspects driving without lights in a residential area of Westlake in the early morning hours. He attemped to stop the vehicle and a chase ensued with speeds of 90 miles per hour. He ultimately apprehended the suspects after a foot chase in Cherry Park in San Bruno. He was commended for his aggressive and alert patrol and observation and having successfully arrested the two wanted suspects who were attempting to evade arrest.

According to Lion President Jim Harper, right, there will be room on each date of the year to record the regular meetings of the various clubs, churches and other organizations in the Daly City-Colma area. There will be room on the Community Birthday Calendar for listing the birthdays of subscribers and their families. Lion Roy Werner, left, said that 50 cents per item will be charged to defray the cost of printing. For the average organization, the amount will equal a sum of less than $30 per year, he said. For families who purchase the calendar the cost of the calendar and the birthday listings will be $5. Requests for listings and information should be addressed to James Henson, 40 Wembley Drive, Daly City, 94015. Henson's phone number is 878-5577.

Community Center Design Goes to Council

By JANET PARKER

A long-time San Bruno resident and city government follower contended last Wednesday that she was intentionally left out of a citizens group that studied a downtown community center proposal.

But many other residents praised the citizen group's report and the Parks and Recreation Commission unanimously voted to recommend the concept of the community center design to the City Council.

However, Parks and Receation Director Paul Crum said the cost of the preliminary design is estimated at $350,000 — about $115,000 more than presently available.

The city received a $385,000 federal Community Development grant to purchase and renovate the old Hatlo Market building at 446 San Mateo Ave. and convert it into a community center.

The building was purchased for $150,000, leaving $235,000 in the grant fund.

In its recommendations, the citizens advisory group stated that elimination or deferment of any feature of the design "will affect all others and may hamper the ove-all success of the facility.

"In the event that renovation estimates are slightly in excess of the original 1974 appropriation, we urge that the city consider supplemental funding before eliminating any integral features."

Other suggested funding sources possibly available were state park and recreation capital funds, supplemental block grant funds, general revenue sharing and nonprofit foundations.

Crum said later "undoubtedly" more funding will be needed, but that the building will be redesigned and the cost estimate could change.

The commission's recommendation will go to the City Council and construction bids could be sought as early as December, he said.

Rose Urbach, a San Bruno resident for 35 years, demanded to know why she had been left out of the citizen group.

According to the federal guidelines and the city's original intent, the center is to serve primarily residents East of El Camino, where there is a large minority and elderly population.

Mrs. Urbach lives in that area, on Euclid Avenue.

"I feel I have a right to be on this committee," Mrs. Urbach angrily said. She also said she had tried to be on the committee in 1975 that studied the feasibility of turning North Brae School into a center.

"Somehow, I'm never asked to be on these committees," she added. "Maybe, because they know my ideas so well they do everything they can to keep me out of these committees," she added.

Recreation staff members have said they made a special effort to get representation from all aspects of the community.

"I resent that all you've done is pointed your fingers at the Samoan, the Tonganese, the Asians," Mrs. Urbach said. "What about the Italians, the Irish, the Germans, the Scandinavians?"

She also complained that meetings concerning the development of a design were not publicized.

Recreation Supervisor Mike Doerner said meetings were announced in the newspapers and fliers were posted on San Mateo Avenue, at City Hall and other public places.

"You haven't been skirted," Doerner said.

"I feel I have been," Mrs. Urbach responded.

Crum said there was no "committee" as Mrs. Urbach called it. A committee, he said, is selected formally by the City Council. This group, he said, was chosen informally by the staff, since the city was pressed for time.

"There's nothing formal here," Crum said.

Commissioner David Nigel questioned the amount of input residents of the east-of-El Camino area had in the study. Planner Larry Smith said four or five of the 18 persons serving with the group reside in that area.

"I feel virtually every population on the east side of El Camino did have representation on that group," Smith said.

Doerner added that the staff will accept opinion from anyone until the doors of the center are open.

"The center is for everybody and we wouldn't want it to be born out of outrage," he said.

But, several of the citizens' group members defended the report.

Art Mowat said the group held six study meetings and two open meetings.

"I see people here tonight who were not at any of those meetings and they don't know what has been done," he said. He added that the city lost its chance to develop a North Brae center.

"Let's not let this thing go down the sewer, too," he said.

Lois Nierenberg said individuals from every area of the city participated in the meetings — much better representation than with the North Brae attempt.

Crum explained that the preliminary plans, drawn up by architect Hashim Al-Yassin of Millbrae, include an auditorium with a stage, meeting rooms and an office. The commission, he said, should be concerned only with the basic design at this point, not with how the center will be used.

Court St. Mary No. 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, Daly City, is cosponsoring a bus trip to the CDA Retirement Home in Salinas on Oct. 22, with Court Junipero Serra of San Mateo.

Cost of the trip will be $9, which covers bus fare and lunch at Madonna Manor.

Regent Mrs. Remy Paz says this trip is being sponsored to familiarize court members of the Retirement Home as California is the only state to own and operate its own home.

Reservations together with checks on a first come, first served basis should be made to Chairman Mrs. Rosario Nepomuceno at 1534 Revere, San Francisco 94134. For details call 922-3948

Jack Dempsey—a Gracious Man Out of Ring

Just one comment about that Ali-Shavers fight, and you may make of it what you will — from the trivial to the significant.

When Ali was asked immediately after the fight, while he was still in the ring, if he was ever hurt, and if so, when, Ali instantly responded, "Yes, he had me out on my feet. He hurt me in the second, ninth, tenth and fifteenth rounds."

But when Shavers was asked when he had Ali in trouble, he could only answer, "I don't know. I had him hurt, but I don't remember when."

AND THEN THERE was Jack Dempsey, who was much more gracious after he left the ring than when he was in it. Jack Downey, the retired San Francisco referee, has many fond memories of Dempsey when the champ was frequenting the Bay Area.

"Dempsey was the softest touch in town," remembers Downey, "and that was for any town he was in. Especially in Reno, where everybody knew him. It used to literally cost him $1,000 to cross the street up there.

"I once knew a San Francisco bartender who had never met Jack, but had several mutual acquaintances. One time he broke himself in Reno and needed some money to pay off a few debts and get back to San Francisco. There wasn't a man in town who would advance him any money, so, knowing Dempsey to be in town, he took a chance, went to his hotel, introduced himself as a friend of this guy and that guy, and touched Jack for what he needed.

"AS SOON AS he got back to town, he wired Jack the money. Jack wrote back to him and told him it was the first time he had ever remembered anybody paying him back a loan."

One time Downey was a patient at Ft. Miley Hospital, and heard Dempsey was in town. He thought it would be a big boost to the soldiers in the hospital if Dempsey could stop by for a few minutes. He called Dempsey's hotel room one early morning and got Jack himself on the phone. He told him that he realized that he had a tight schedule, but that just a few minutes from Jack would mean a lot to the kids.

"When do you want me?" Jack asked.

"Any time you can make it," replied Downey, willing to settle for anything.

"How about now," said Jack, who hung up the phone, got dressed, hailed a cab, and was at the hospital within the hour.

WHEN HE GOT there, though, there was a complication. Downey had originally felt that Dempsey could talk to the soldiers in a small auditorium at the hospital, but when word got around, virtually all 300 soldiers wanted to see him, and they couldn't have all fitted into the auditorium.

"Well, hell," said Jack, when he could see the dilemma developing among hospital officials, "I'll go meet them all personally, room to room."

And for the next several hours, that's exactly what Dempsey did, until he had shaken the hand of every soldier at the hospital.

WHEN DEMPSEY came to town in those earlier days, there was an independent, one-car cabbie, an old friend of Jack's, who always acted as his unofficial chauffeur. One morning Jack hopped in his cab and told his friend that since he was in San Francisco so much, anyway, that he was thinking of buying a car. He asked his cabbie friend what he would recommend as the ideal car for climbing San Francisco's hills, gas mileage, etc.

After the cabbie had given his opinion, Jack commanded him to drive over to Van Ness Avenue to that particular car agency. Dempsey hopped off, went inside for a few minutes, came out, threw the cabbie a set of car keys, and told him, "You park your cab out here in the red zone. A salesman in there will take care of it for you. Watch out for the cops. They're lending me a car to test for the day."

For the rest of the day the cabbie drove Dempsey around to his appointments in the new car, telling Jack that he couldn't go wrong buying it, that it was a fine machine.

WHEN THEY returned to the auto agency in late afternoon, the cabbie found HIS cab missing from the front of the agency, where he had parked it. Fuming, he went in, found the salesman, and asked him what the big idea was, letting his car get towed away after he had promised Jack that he would watch the car for him.

And then the salesman carefully explained to the irate cabbie that his car hadn't been towed, that it had been the trade-in for the new car Dempsey had bought the cabbie that morning — cash!

WHEN RALPH Nader was saving lives, he was fine. But there is a large difference between pointing out defective automobile manufacturing and meddling in what sports team owners charge for admission to games and determining how their business is to be run in general terms, and that is what Nader seems to be proposing in a new consumer advocate organization he's backing called FANS (Fight to Advance the Nation's Sports).

Among many other things, and again, in general terms which I hope I'm not simplifying, Nader wants owners to let poor people into stadiums practically free (which many clubs do, anyway, in a limited fashion at their own prerogative rather than as a mandatory procedure), and have fans determine, through voting, whether or not a particularly favored athlete should be allowed to go to another team, for whatever reasons, including even if the athletes WANTS to move.

Sports And Recreation

Nader can't win this one, because he will have both the owners' AND the players' organizations after him. If I read it right, it's a ridiculous organization whose concept doesn't befit the dignity which Nader's image deserves. I just have to believe that Nader must have more important things to do, and is at this point in his career spreading himself as thin as the logic of FANS.

ACCORDING TO The Sporting News, Horace Stoneham is interested in operating the Sacramento Solons of the Pacific Coast League in 1979, after the new county-owned stadium is completed. His long-time San Francisco front office associates, Jerry Donovan and Joe Orengo are, according to the plan, being written in as working partners.

I RARELY make predictions, but look for the Yankees' Sparky Lyle to become the American League's first relief pitcher to get the Cy Young Award. it's a process of elimination. Baltimore's Jim Palmer would have had a chance, as the AL's first 20 game winner this year, had Baltimore won the division title, but they didn't. California's Nolan Ryan and Tom Goltz of Minnesota didn't have GREAT years, and didn't pitch for winners. Kansas City's big winning pair of Dennis Leonard and Jim Colborn didn't have impressive enough ERA's, and didn't do anything really spectacular to keep KC on top. The Yankees' surprising rookie, Ron Guidry, might be the best qualified starter of them all, but he is, after all, a rookie, he's relativey unknown,and he started the season as a reliever, so never had the chance to pick up the 20 wins that seems mandatory for a Cy Young winner. So Lyle, who carried the Yankees particularly down the September hot stretch, must be the favorite.
